Prior to the issuance of an occupancy permit or final sign-off by the Building Department, documents or plans verifying and confirming that specifications contained in the approved petition are met must be filed with the Building Department and Historic District Commission. All projects must submit and 8 x 10 inch color photo of each relevant façade for final approval. In the case of structural modifications, additions or new construction, the finished project must have a stamped “as-built” drawing submitted to this Commission by a registered architect for final approval. Failure to receive final approval by the Historic District Commission may result in denial of an occupancy permit. Variation from any Historic District Commission approved plan must undergo the review of this Commission for approval.
